BALOPTICONS

... and other Bausch & Lomb Optical Instruments and Accessories for Scientific Workers

G-Type Microscope

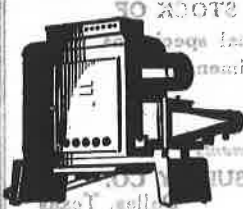

AS A PART of their continuous development campaign, Bausch & Lomb now offer two new series of microscopes: the G type and the H type. These instruments are designed to meet every microscope need of the scientific or research laboratory. Various models in both types answer the requirements of different phases of work.

Minot Automatic Rotary Microtome

B & L Microtomes have been used for years in laboratories where sectioning is necessary. Here again, numerous designs are available for practically any type of sectioning.

There is a B & L Balopticon for every still projection purpose whether it be the projection of lantern slides or opaque objects, in a small room or a large auditorium. Over 300 years of experience in the manufacture of optical instruments is reflected in the design of every B & L Balopticon. If you have need for information on any optical product whatsoever, Bausch & Lomb will welcome your request.
